PRESENT COPIES OF NEW BIBLE AT COMMUNITY SERVICES HERE

Taken presentations of copies of the new Revised Standard Version of the Bible were made to community leaders and representatives Tuesday evening at a community service of thanksgiving and dedication in the Methodist Church.

The Rev. Wallace E. Fisher, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, was the speaker at the service arranged by the Gettysburg Ministerium in observance of the publication of the new version of the Bible. The church was nearly filled for the service in which six town pastors participated. Called to the front of the auditorium near the close of the service for copies of the new translation which were presented by the Rev. Robert Knechel, president of the Ministerium, were these representative individuals:

Given New Bibles
District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter; Burgess William G. Weaver; Mrs. Mary S. Wilson, county librarian; Dr. L. C. Keefe, superintendent of the Gettysburg public schools; Mrs. C. Louise Stanton, a Sunday School superintendent; Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Bucher and their two daughters, as a representative family; and Robert Dillman as a youth representative. Another copy will be given to WGET but no representative was present at the service to receive the copy.

"Our purpose in meeting tonight is to urge all people to study God's word every day," Rev. Fisher said. "If you are doing that and the King James Version, or the editions of 1901 or Moffat or Smith and Goodspeed or any other translation is an effective medium whereby God's word is daily strengthening your life, then keep on with that translation. But if you are one of the majority who no longer reads God's word, then we urge that you get the Revised Standard Version and sit down and study it every day, that you establish a program of family devotions with the RVS as your basic translation. It is accurate; it uses contemporary language; it is freshly readable.

Means of Salvation
"We should fail in our purpose if we did not underscore the reason why God's word is indispensable to all of us. Simply, it is the means of our salvation; it is the touchstone of our faith, the basis of our hope, the source of new life. It is the foundation of the Christian Church and it is all of this because the Word of God calls us to repentance, offers forgiveness and creates God's own brand of love."

After the precession hymn, "O Word of God Incarnate," the invocation was given by the host pastor, the Rev. Victor K. Meredith Jr. A responsive reading of a part of Psalm 119 was led by Dr. H. S. Fox, Trinity Evangelical and Reformed pastor.

Sing Special Hymn
A quartet including Shirley Kennell, Mrs. Meredith, Eugene Gardner and David Blosser sang "Book of Books." Using the new translation, the Rev. Clyde R. Brown, Presbyterian pastor, read scripture from Isaiah 14 and Romans 1. The prayer of thanksgiving was given by Dr. Fox.

Then the congregation sang a hymn, "The Divine Gift," written specially for the occasion and the address by the Rev. Mr. Fisher followed. The offering was received by the Rev. Mr. Knechel who then made the Bible presentations. A concluding "act of thanksgiving" in the form of a responsive prayer was led by Dr. R. R. Gresh, St. James Lutheran pastor. The final hymn was "The Church's One Foundation" and the benediction pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Meredith.

Dr. Fisher's sermon follows in part: "Any service which points the heart and mind to God's Word is a significant service. Without God's Word we, together with 3,000 other communities, would lose our reason for tonight's nationwide service.

A Milestone In Printing
"On this particular occasion, we are met to take sober notice of a milestone in the history of religious publishing—the Revised Standard Version Bible is the largest single commercial printing of any book in the history of printing. It follows just 500 years after the first Gutenberg Bible.

"We are met to pay quiet tribute to the 32 biblical scholars, our own Dr. Wentz among them, who labored more than a decade without compensation to bring forward a more accurate and more readable edition of the Bible in the English language. Accuracy, intelligibility and majority agreement was the triple banner under which the scholars marched. They have labored well and we, deep in their debt, pay them tribute tonight.

"Thirdly, on this occasion we are met to tell the world that we be-

30 COUNTIANS ARE INDUCTED THIS MORNING

Thirty men left here this morning for induction in the armed forces at Harrisburg. The group filled the largest single call for men from the Adams County Selective Service board since it was organized in 1948, after a lapse in the draft following World War II.

A number of large calls were recorded previously, with 25 called in March, 1951, and 23 each on February 8, 1951, October 9, 1950, and September 11, 1950, but today's call was the largest single group to report in any one month.

It followed a period in which the draft board was asked to send only a few men each month.

Want 40 In October
Draft Board officials noted that most of the men who were called for service in the September 11, 1950, group, the first large group sent from Adams County under the new draft program, are now home after having completed their tour of duty with the armed forces.

At present, 186 of the men drafted since 1948 are still in service. Thirty-five have been separated from the service, according to the draft board records. All told, including the group today, 251 have been sent by the draft board for induction into the armed forces.

Stepping up of the number of draftees was indicated by the call for 40 inductees for physical examination on October 9 which was received recently by the local board.

In Today's Group
Robert L. McClell Jr., Table Rock, served as the leader for the group which left here this morning by bus at 6 o'clock for Harrisburg and induction. Richard L. Allison, Upper Darby, was assistant leader.

Railroads Played Important Roles In Developing County

This is the first in a series of eleven articles on railroading in Adams County.

Indian trails, explorers' paths, pack horse routes, wagon roads, canals and finally railroads, all played their part in the settling and building of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Adams County had all but the canals, and the stories of the promotion and building of the early rail lines in this area furnish one of the most fascinating chapters in the county's colorful history.

Political intrigue, legislative log-rolling and the fortunes of the Commonwealth itself were involved at one time or another in the laying out of the railroads in Adams County. Today three remain, The Western Maryland Railway, The Reading and the York, Hanover and Frederick Railway, operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Oldest Never Used
The oldest of them all was a railroad that never was completed and over which no trains ever ran. This was Thaddeus Stevens' "Tapeworm." The old Pennsylvania State Railroad figured extensively in politics and was made an issue in several campaign feuds. Thomas Frederick Woodley, in his book, "Thaddeus Stevens," gives the following facts on the origin and building of the "Tapeworm."

45 Chinese Prisoners Killed In Commy Riot; 120 Injured

CHEJU ISLAND, Korea (AP)—American guards with blazing guns killed 45 Chinese prisoners of war and injured 120 others in quelling a riot today.

The POWs were celebrating the third anniversary of China's Communist regime when some fanatics turned the jubilee into an attack on their guards.

"The majority of those killed and wounded were shot," said a Prisoner of War Command spokesman. Two American soldiers were injured slightly.

The spokesman said: "It was really a fight. Due to all the confusion that surrounds an incident like this one, many details are lacking."

The 500 fanatical prisoners battled two infantry platoons—about 80 men—with stones, rocks, clubs, tent poles and weapons improvised from materials in their compound.

Second Big Riot
From a standpoint of fatalities today's riot was the second largest among POWs in Korea announced by the Army. Last February, in a similar riot on notorious Koje Island, 80 prisoners were killed.

About 6,400 hard-core Chinese Communists are quartered in various camps around Cheju City on the island south of Pusan. Also on Cheju are about 13,600 Chinese captives who have said they would resist repatriation to Communist China.

The Army said the commander of the Cheju camp yesterday issued an order against prisoner demonstrations. Presumably he had anticipated trouble on the Red anniversary.

TOURIST TOTAL IN LAST YEAR HERE 710,993, PARK REPORTS

Gettysburg had one of its largest tourist visitations in history during the year ending Tuesday night, the National Park office reported this morning.

The "travel year" ends for the park service at midnight September 30, and reports on visitations to all of the national parks are forwarded October 1 to the U. S. Department of the Interior.

During the last year 710,993 people toured the Battlefield, according to the park estimate based on the number of guided tours of the field.

Near 1929 Mark

That number was 26,943 more than the 684,050 listed for the prior year. It also marked the third time in park records that the number of tourists has exceeded the 700,000 mark. One of those years was 1938 when the 75th anniversary of the battle, the last encampment here of the Blue and Gray, and the dedication of the Eternal Light Peace memorial brought 1,534,234 people here. Of that number approximately 1,000,000 visited during the reunion period.

The only other year in which the figure exceeded the 700,000 mark was in 1929—the year of great prosperity, of which guides still speak fondly, for money was spent freely and tips of $5 above the cost of a guided tour were frequent. In 1929, 727,395 toured the field.

Tourists arrived mostly by automobile during the past year, with 186,591 cars recorded as traveling over the battlefield. That number was 2,157 more than the 164,334 counted the previous year. The number of buses touring the field in the last year was 1,092, or 67 more than the 1,025 here during the prior year. Traveling in the buses were 37,511 tourists, mostly school children.

23,608 At Cyclorama
In addition to those who were guided over the field, or who simply visited on their own, there were 7,098 conducted on trips over the field by park officials. The number included military groups, Boy Scouts and similar organizations.

The cyclorama drew 23,608 visitors during the year as compared to 19,658 the previous year.

May continued to be the big month for visitation by high school children in buses. During May this year 17,857 persons in 506 buses visited the battlefield. There were 6,784 in 192 buses in April and 5,120 in 163 buses in June. Last October proved a good month for bus tours, with 1,380 persons in 37 buses here during that month. In November there were 13 buses and 404 people; December, one bus and 25 people; January, 13 buses, 415

Huge Chemical Plant Pounded In Giant Raid Near Yalu River

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The U. S. Air Force today reported 30 Allied planes were lost to all causes in September. But it said only seven of its jet fighters were shot down in the furious air battles which cost the Communists a record 62 MIG-15s destroyed. The previous one-month record for MIGs downed was 44, set last April.

The announcement came soon after the Allies opened another month of air blows with a massive B-29 attack against a sprawling chemical plant only 40 yards from the Manchurian border. An armada of 48 Superforts dropped 425 tons of high explosives on the Namsan plant in one of the biggest B-29 raids of the war.

Reds Display Body
Brightly-colored pennants fluttered on the Western Front as Chinese Communists celebrated the third anniversary of the founding of their Red regime. The Reds added a gruesome touch by displaying the body of a dead American soldier before one forward position.

Savage close-in fighting flared on the Central Front west of the Pukhan River when a company of Chinese tried to capture an Allied hill position.

The hand-to-hand fighting lasted nearly two hours. U.N. troops stood their ground and forced the Chinese back with bayonets, grenades and fists.

The U. S. Eighth Army said the Reds lost 3,171 men killed, wounded and captured last week in ground fighting.

The B-29 attack on the Namsan plant was the first of the war. An Air Force spokesman said it was "one of the most important industrial facilities in North Korea." It produced tungsten, carbide, black lead and other chemicals used in making munitions.

The old viaduct built to carry Thaddeus Stevens' "Tapeworm" Railroad over Tom's Run, near present day Iron Springs, never felt the weight of a rail or the passage of a locomotive and cars. The above photograph shows it as it stands today, its masonry arch of stone almost as it was left by the last trol. Work on "The Pennsylvania State Railroad" stopped when Stevens' political enemies in the State Legislature cut off the funds for the line which would have provided a rail outlet for Stevens' iron project, Maria Furnace, only times of which are left today.

1829, expressed his doubt of the constitutionality of the Bank of the United States, its owners and officials were notified of his purposeful opposition to it. Well knowing the determination of the man, they realized he would do everything in his power to end it when its charter expired in 1836, if he could not in the meantime destroy it.

"Stockholders of the bank had applied for renewal of the charter in 1832, but the bill granting it, which was passed by both houses of Congress was, as expected, vetoed by him. Thereupon Nicholas

HOLD MENTAL PATIENT ROBBER IN COP'S DEATH

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—A pint-sized mental patient who killed one policeman and wounded another yesterday after a reckless $51,000 bank holdup was held under heavy guard today awaiting arraignment on a murder charge.

Five-foot Louis di Fraia, 27, of Providence, thrice escaped from the Rhode Island State Hospital for mental diseases, robbed a branch of the Industrial Trust Co. at rifle point. Chased into Pawtucket, he forced his way into a home, held two women hostages and shot down the two officers in a furious gun battle. Tear gas eventually forced him to give up.

DiFraia—described by Dr. John R. Regan, superintendent of the mental hospital, as a man with "a serious type of mental disorder"—spent last night in a hospital bed manacled to two policemen. He had been wounded in the right arm before his surrender, and another bullet had creased his skull.

Police said he would be arraigned today if his condition permits.

All but $1,578.52 of the $51,339.30 that DiFraia took from Mrs. Carol Maynard, the bank teller, was recovered in the gunman's automobile and outside the bank, police said.

DANCE IN HOTEL ANNEX TONIGHT

Les Michener, Gettysburg, and his eight-piece orchestra will present the first in a weekly series of dances for high school, college and older groups tonight in the Hotel Gettysburg Annex. Dancing will be from 7 to 10 p.m. and the admission price will be 50 cents, plus tax. There will be a door prize.

"This will be in the nature of an experiment for us in presenting this type of clean entertainment in Gettysburg," Mr. Michener said today. "If tonight's dance is successful, we will continue the dances weekly."

The orchestra is well known throughout a large section of Pennsylvania. It has played for the Military Ball at Bucknell College; the Spring Formal at F & M; the Commencement Ball at Dickinson College and the Freshman - Sophomore Prom at Gettysburg College.

High school students will remember the orchestra as playing for the "Flamingo Fling" at the school in March, 1951. The orchestra has played at 14 colleges, a number of high school, and the American Legion and other clubs.

BAKERY TRUCK DRIVER IS HURT

Roy H. Moubray, 18, Littlestown R. D., an employee of the Sprengle Baking Company, Hanover, suffered a fracture of the right upper leg, a fracture of the right knee, lacerations of the left knee and multiple lacerations of the face and scalp when the bread truck he was driving crashed into the rear end of a tractor-trailer truck on the Lincoln Highway, a short distance east of the Fayetteville bypass, at 6:20 a.m. Tuesday.

An attaché of the Chambersburg Hospital, where the youth was taken for treatment, said his condition was regarded as "fair."

Moubray told police that the highway was foggy and that he knew nothing of the proximity of the large vehicle until it suddenly loomed up in front of him.

George R. Milko Jr., 44, of Philadelphia, driver of the larger truck, was treated at the hospital for an injury of the right wrist. He told police that he was having motor trouble and was pulling off onto the right berm to investigate the trouble when the other vehicle crashed into the rear of his truck, which was slowing down but had not yet come to a stop.

The baking company truck was demolished, police reported. Damage to the truck driven by Milko, owned by the Contract Carriers Lines, Inc., was estimated at $1,000.

lieve that God's Word is crucially relevant to every man's soul and therefore to every man's historical existence, that God's Word, made eminently clear in Jesus Christ, is the Way, the Truth and the Life.

Confess Neglect

"Finally, we are met to confess our own neglect in the earnest reading of God's Word and to strengthen our own frequent decisions to keep at this glorious task, in season and out of season.

"And now a word concerning the Bible.

"Structurally the Bible is the cradle which enshrines the Living Word. The Bible is the vehicle which carries to you and me this Living Word. The Bible as a book with printed pages and binding will pass away, but the Word it conveys is timeless, indestructible, eternal. There never was a time when the Word did not exist. It was as John reminds us in the opening verses of his gospel, co-eternal with God. There will never come a time when the Word ceases to exist.

God's Word Is Eternal

"Everything else has a beginning and an ending. The world was created and one day it will cease to exist as a world. All of us are born; all of us die. Everything has a beginning and an ending except the Word of God and our only chance for ultimate security, for eternal permanency, is to be allied somehow with this living, eternal Word.

"Toward this wonderful alliance, God began to work long centuries ago. He began to speak to man through a series of events and persons and finally in Jesus Christ. . . . Now the Bible, quite simply, is the inspired record of God's speaking to us through events and finally in Jesus Christ. Oral tradition on these momentous acts of God would prove inadequate. There had to be a written record and so across the centuries this record emerged, being sustained by God's interest in the whole process. This inspired record of God's Word is our Bible.

Many Bibles Used

"Now you know there is not a single Bible but many. You know that written manuscripts composed the Bible for centuries before we knew how to set up movable type. You know that the Bible had to be translated from Hebrew and Greek into Latin and later German, English, French, Telegu and all languages. We English speaking people have a number of English translations reaching back to the 16th century. Most church people know the King James translation best but it is no a whit more acceptable to God than Moffat's translation, for example. Across three centuries many English words have changed meanings, translators like copyists, make mistakes and translations from one language to another allows for individual interpretation in meaning.

"The Revised Standard Version speaks in contemporary English. It profits from new manuscript discoveries in the last half century. It benefits from a committee of scholars going on the majority voice at all disputed points on manuscript and interpretation.

"The RCV further has an attractive format which invites the eye. Chapters and verses are noted but the wide breaks in a single book are no longer evident to the eye. The volume is medium point, easy to read. The volume is readily handled.

"It may well be the particular Bible which will encourage you to read God's Word gladly."

Two Burglaries Probed By Police

A minor "crime wave" Monday night was reported by borough police today.

A thief or thieves entered the Dave Oyler Motors garage sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning and removed a 1951 model radio with AM and FM bands. They also drained gasoline from school buses parked in the garage. They entered apparently by a rear window, police were informed.

At about the same time some one entered the Swope's Atlantic Station on Carlisle St. by a side window, and stole a cashew nut dispenser and attempted to pry open a cigarette machine.

The Swope's Atlantic burglary occurred during one of the few nights of year when the establishment was closed. The Dave Oyler garage theft was discovered, police said, when a mechanic planned to set up the radio this morning for the World Series game this afternoon and discovered that it had disappeared.

BIG BURDEN ON JOE BLACK AS SERIES OPENS

By GAYLE TALBOT
BROOKLYN (P)—The key game of the 1952 World Series begins at 1 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, today at Ebbets Field, bandbox park of the Brooklyn Dodgers, with Joe Black, sensational rookie reliever of the National League champions, giving his all against Allie Reynolds, the kingfish of the Yankee curving corps.

Never in the history of baseball did a first-year pitcher carry a more appalling burden than that assigned to Black.

He knew when he went to the hill that his team's chances of winning a world championship, or even of giving the famed Bombers a lengthy wrestle, were believed by the experts to rest upon his ability to turn back the Yanks today.

Maybe Four Straight
The consensus of the critics was that the Yankees would win their fourth straight crown in five or six games.

Only the possibility that Black, a righthander of impeccable control, might throttle the champions today and perhaps offer valuable assistance later on kept many prophets from picking the American Leaguers to wrap it up in four straight.

It was a throat-catching spot for a rookie to find himself in. Only last April, after a series of poor exhibitions, the husky Negro hurler was at the absolute bottom of the Brooklyn mound staff and he barely escaped being shipped back to the minors. Manager Chuck Dressen shudders now at the thought.

Proved His Merit

Though he eventually proved his merit in relief roles and established himself without argument the most valuable single player in either league, the rookie never started a big league game in his life until the day of the series.

He went the distance easily, sat the Boston Braves down with three hits and won his 15th victory in assuring the Dodgers at least a tie for the flag. In a succeeding start he was knocked out in the fifth inning.

Beyond Black, nobody can predict with any confidence what any Brooklyn thrower will do on a given day. Dressen sums up his series pitching strategy thus:

"I'm starting Black, and from there on I'll use two or three pitchers—or four or five. The record shows we've done pretty good that way."

Big Home Run Threat

The irony of the situation is obvious. Almost as far back as one can remember, it has been axiomatic that the National League goes into the fall play off with the finer pitching, the American League with the greater power at the plate.

Now the National finally comes up with a club which slugs at least on even terms with the Yankees, yet cannot summon three curvers who appear to compare with Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Eddie Lopat.

Outside the pitching, the experts have had much difficulty splitting the two teams apart. Both are solid clubs, loaded with hitting and fielding talent right from the plate to the last outfielder.

The Yankees are conceded to be slightly the faster team, but the Dodgers pack the greater home run threat. Their hitting and fielding averages are so closely matched that no conclusion what ever may be drawn from a comparison.

The nationally televised and broadcast 10 rounder will start at 10 p. m. (EST).

NOW HAVE GRID TICKETS

In response to requests and the great demand, reserved seat tickets for the Gettysburg-Hanover football game at Hanover Friday night have been placed on sale at the Peoples Drug and the Rea and Derick stores in addition to Britcher and Bender store.

YANKEES DON'T SCARE BLACK

BROOKLYN (P)—Last-minute quotes from the opposing pitchers in the opener of the World Series today at Ebbets Field:

Joe Black, Brooklyn—The way I feel right now it's just another ball game. The Yankees don't awe me at all. After watching them work out, I realized they were just another ball club. They're a good ball club, but the Dodgers seem to be a pretty good club, too.

Allie Reynolds, New York—I feel okay. I know that the series starts today. I believe we're up for the game. I know I am, and that's about it.

FOUR TERPS ON INJURED LIST

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (P)—The Maryland football squad is hurting down deep.

A string of injuries is sapping the reserve strength and reducing platoon potency of the undefeated Terps.

It isn't serious yet, but Maryland still has seven games to play. Already, three players Coach Jim Tatum had counted on rather heavily are out for the season.

Tatum lost one of his first string guards when John Guender, a junior from Plainfield, N. J., was hurt in an auto accident. John Bowersox of Westminster, Md., recently came down with yellow jaundice.

Then another guard, Bill Maletzky of White Plains, hurt a leg against Auburn.

Boxold Breaks Leg

In Monday's scrimmage among reserves, halfback Charles Boxold of Providence, R. I., broke a leg. Leland Liebold of Smokeless, Pa., can fill in on offense but not defense.

Two fullbacks, Ed Barritt of Long Island, N. Y., and Bob Laughery of Mill Run, Pa., both are on the injured list.

Ed Fullerton of West View, Pa., has had to step into the fullback spot although Tatum had hoped to confine him to defense. Fullerton will do both, which in Tatum's mind, impairs his efficiency on the attack because of fatigue.

To top it off, All-American quarterback candidate Jack Scarbath played the first two games with a badly bruised foot.

EX-CADET STARS FOR KANSAS U.

By SKIPPER PATRICK

LAWRENCE, Kan. (P)—A good-looking, easy-going young man who once played a whopping defensive game for West Point is proving himself one of the best all-around quarterbacks to show up in the Big Seven Conference in several seasons.

He is Gilbert Reich, of Steelton, Pa., who came to the University of Kansas following the cribbing scandal at Army last year.

Reich, a 21-year-old, 187 pound 6-footer, hit the winning blows in Kansas' first two victories this season. He's being proclaimed the best leader at the Jayhawk school since All America Ray Evans of 1947.

Hurls 2 To Passes

Gil threw two touchdown passes as Kansas opened in a 13-0 victory over T. C. U. He punted sensationally, ran well and played 50 minutes defense. Last week Reich ran back a punt 70 yards in the third quarter to pull his team from behind and send the Jayhawks to a 21-19 victory over rugged Santa Clara.

Reich, who is majoring in civil engineering, is playing his last year of football eligibility in the Big Seven Conference, but he says he will return next fall to complete his degree. He hopes to go into the structural design business after graduation.

Reich is a fine all-around athlete. He'll be a top candidate for Phog Allen's basketball team this winter and may take a crack at both baseball and track next spring.

Many observers believe that if Kansas ousts Oklahoma from the Big Seven championship this fall Reich will be the trigger man in the act.

PIRATES BUY TWO

PITTSBURGH (P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates purchased pitcher Johnny Lindell and outfielder Carlos Bernier today from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League.

Lindell, former New York Yankee outfielder, won 24 and lost nine. The 36-year-old righthander also led the league in strikeouts with 190.

Bernier, 23-year-old Puerto Rican, batted .301 in 171 games and led the circuit in stolen bases with 65 and runs scored with 105.

PHILS BUY GLAVIANO

PHILADELPHIA (P)—The Philadelphia Phillies today announced purchase of St. Louis Cardinals utility infielder Tommy Glaviano for the $10,000 waiver price.

MILWAUKEE—Joe Miceli, 144½, Brooklyn, outpointed Virgil Akins, 138, St. Louis, 10.

NEWARK, N. J.—Doug Carter, 139½, Newark, outpointed Mario Moreno, 141, New York, 8.

RALPH KINER IS PLACED ON SALE BY PITTSBURGH

NEW YORK (P)—Ralph Kiner, seven-time home run king of the National League, has been placed on the market to the highest bidder, The Associated Press learned today.

It also was learned that the Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves had shown interest in the Pittsburgh Pirate slugger but were balking at the "sky-scraping" figure put on him by Pittsburgh General Manager Branch Rickey.

Kiner, who will be 30 years old Oct. 27, is ranked as one of the greatest sluggers baseball has ever known. The 6-foot-2 native of New Mexico has led or tied for the National League lead in home runs ever since he came up to the majors in 1946.

Worst In Six Years

Hampered by illness during the first half of the season, Kiner got off to a slow start this year but closed fast to tie Hank Sauer of the Cubs for the homer leadership at 37. It was his lowest home run total in six years, but it gave him a lifetime figure of 294 round trippers in seven seasons. He batted only .244.

One drawback to the sale of Kiner is his huge salary. The good-natured outfielder was paid $75,000 last year, second in the majors only to Stan Musial's $85,000 salary. It was a one-year pact.

SEWELL MAY PILOT BUCS

NEW YORK (P)—General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates says he doesn't know when he will name a new manager to replace Billy Meyer.

But Luke Sewell, former pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, indicates he's available for the job when the time comes.

Sewell, ex-major league catcher who managed the St. Louis Browns several years, said yesterday he wants to stay in baseball and wouldn't mind taking the job with the Pirates as long as "everything was right."

"I wouldn't say yes or no on Sewell," Rickey declared, adding: "I would not say no or yes on anyone."

Rickey and Meyer, who has been offered an advisory job with the Bucs, are in New York for the World Series.

PSEA SPEAKER RAPS ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIPS

HARRISBURG (P)—Roy W. Wiley, Johnstown school superintendent, today described as "not wholesome" the practice of giving college scholarships to promising athletes.

Most high school principals agree with him, he said.

Addressing the opening of the Pennsylvania Education Congress, Wiley said:

"The educational opportunities of a college are too often of secondary importance to high school students. They are impressed with the activities of the college, its campus and buildings. They need direction and guidance in choosing a college equipped to meet their educational needs."

Scholarships, he said, should be granted primarily "to help worthy, needy students to get an education in an institution which has a curriculum in the field of their interest."

"They should meet the same requirements as other students," Wiley added.

Blasts Requirements
In another talk, Louis T. Benezet, president of Allegheny College, Meadville, said "arbitrary subject hurdles" in college entrance examinations are denying colleges larger enrollments.

"Even today if a college makes a high school requirement of a foreign language, it immediately reduces the potential student market by at least one-third," he said.

Benezet added:

"Our colleges in the main are not looking today for the formula-type of college applicant, the boy or girl who has sat patiently through the required number of required so-called 'respectable' academic subjects in high school."

"Our colleges are looking for young people who can learn in college. We would like them to be able to read and write and we would like young people who want to learn."

"malicious and untruthful reports... that I have bolted the Republican party," which have been in circulation in some sections of the county during recent weeks.

Denounces False Reports

The state legislator had been charged with "conspiring to elect a candidate not nominated by the Republican party." The rumors had gained wide circulation in one section of the county and Mr. Pitzer said "I feel compelled to publicly denounce these nasty and malicious charges and to inform the people of the county of my exact position in the current Presidential campaign."

"I am not a party to any deal," he said. "I have not entered into any conspiracy with anyone to defeat any Republican nominee. Neither have I entered into any conspiracy or deal to elect any person not nominated by the Republican voters at the last primary."

"Our great election system grants to every voter the right to cast his vote as he or she wishes. The voters expressed such a preference last April. I abide by their decision. I have no intention to attempt to offset such a decision. Any reports to the contrary are false and malicious."

"I am working for General Eisenhower down the line because I believe that the Republican party can restore our national reputation and I want to see the Republican party retained in power in Pennsylvania."

BULLETS, W. MD. MEET SATURDAY FOR 23RD TIME

Saturday's meeting here between the Gettysburg and Western Maryland college football teams will mark the 23rd between the old rivals with the Bullets having a wide edge.

Since the opening game back in 1891, the schools have clashed on the gridiron 22 times with the Bullets emerging victorious 17 times, losing four while one ended in a deadlock.

Last year the Green Terrors came here to spring a surprise with a 13-6 victory.

Charley Havens has a fair supply of veterans remaining from last year and has hopes for another successful season. Last year the Marylanders swept aside all opposition for an undefeated campaign.

Harlow Henderson, star passer, is back again and is being counted upon to give the Terrors a strong aerial threat.

The Bullets are in fairly good shape for their initial home game. Only Tony Natale, hard-running back, is definitely out of the lineup. He suffered a shoulder separation in the opening game last Saturday night as the Bullets edged Delaware 14-13 and will be out for several weeks.

Kickoff time on Saturday is 2 p.m.

Former Residents Return For Visit

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Cohen, of Washington, D. C., and Robert Q. Cohen, of Llano, Texas, visited Mrs. Q. W. Hershey and other relatives and friends in the York Springs district on Monday. They were enroute to Carlisle to spend the night with Mr. and Mrs. William P. Cowan. Mr. Cowan and Robert Cohen were partners in dairy farming near York Springs until two years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Cohen moved to a 2200-acre ranch in Texas. He reports that both his children, Bobby and Susie, are now expert horsemen. Last year they had no rain from early in September until February. He fed his cattle by burning the spines of the prickly pear so that the cattle could get roughage and moisture and then fed a concentrated protein cake. They weathered the drought very well and this year the grass is lush. After the rain started they had one deluge that deposited 20 inches in 24 hours. "Bob" arrived by plane in Washington last week and will stay with his parents until the end of the week when he will emplane for Texas.

FOR LOVE OF PEOPLE AND PLACES

It was said of Vachel Lindsay that one of the reasons why he left home and traveled by foot over many states, trading his poems for food, was that he so much loved meeting people and seeing places. He was a great poet with a royal soul, who was tragically neglected and unappreciated during his life.

I have been reading a most interesting book about this fine American poet, called "City of Discontent," by Mark Harris. It is really an interpretive biography of Vachel Lindsay, as well as the story of Springfield, Illinois, the home of Abraham Lincoln. But Lindsay loved all of America, whether city, state, or nation. Springfield and Illinois were the more precious to him because they meant home! And that's the way it is with all of us. We love the place of our birth, and the memory of those with whom we early came in contact.

But if you love too much you get lonely, as this poet did. He had deep and living ideas of beauty and honest ideals, and he wanted to imbue others with them. As in so many other cases, Lindsay had to die in order to live. Lindsay loved Springfield and Illinois because "there is one place that belongs to every man, and that place he must love and make beautiful and by precept and example show the world that place and let other men in other places do likewise."

In his thinking, drawing and associations Lindsay forever sought to keep close to people, especially to the humble and the great mass that men like Lincoln loved. He would not, however, compromise his art. He was a poet of integrity, first of all. I think this fact is well brought out in this absorbing book about him, and the style of writing is quite out of the ordinary as used by writers of biography.

I hope this book will be widely read, for poets like Vachel Lindsay have been all too rare in the world. When we read of the struggles of this poet in his youth, and his over-all courage and sacrifices, it makes us ashamed that each of us lacks so much of the sincerity and character that he demonstrated in life. Had he written but one poem, and that one "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight," his fame would have been secure.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Days and Nights." Protected, 1952, by The George Matthew Adams Service

WATCH THE KIDS
A master of English prose forbids the custom of calling the children "kids."

But driving a street where in groups they play
"Watch out for the kids," to myself I say.

For the word that's proper to use I seek
When I have something to write or speak,
But whenever a friend of mine drives away
"Be sure to watch out for the kids," I say.

There are words the vulgar and ill-bred use
Which in conversation I'd never choose.
But driving the car, by night or day,
"Watch out for the kids," I always say.

LOOKS LIKE CIA WAS ONE-DAY SENSATION ON POLITICAL SCENE

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — It looks as if the nation's most secret organization, the Central Intelligence Agency, may have been a one-day political sensation.

The CIA is the organization on which the safety of this nation depends. Its awesome chore: finding out precisely what any political enemies are up to.

The CIA became involved in politics because of something its director, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, said at the tail end of his testimony in a deposition hearing in Sen. Joseph McCarthy's two-million-dollar libel-slander suit against Sen. William Benton.

Never Found A Red
Smith said he believes Communists have worked their way into every security agency, including his own. Later, he qualified his remarks by saying:

"They're (the Communists) so clever you've got to proceed on the assumption they can infiltrate you, and that's what we do."

But never, he said, has a Communist been found in the CIA.

The Republicans, who have maintained all along that the administration has been lax in its attitude toward Communists, reacted quickly.

Things Cooled Off
Arthur E. Summerfield, Republican national chairman, said: "Shocking revelation x x x incredible looseness."

But the Democrats, as represented by their presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, counseled against injecting the CIA into politics.

That was after Smith had amplified his original remarks by explaining that it was necessary for him to "assume" that some Communists could be smart enough to get into his organization.

And from that point on, things began to cool off. Said a spokesman for the Republican National Committee: "We have no plan to make a political football" of Gen. Smith's statement. An aide to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower said the GOP presidential nominee would not do anything to endanger the security of the U. S. or the CIA.

GOP CLAIM ON COMMUNISTS IS "LUDICROUS"

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson bore down on the Communists-in-government issues today with a stand that the GOP is making a "ludicrous" claim it could easily end Red penetrations of federal agencies.

The Democratic presidential nominee and his staff intensified, too, efforts to win over independent and other voters through a nation-wide organization of volunteers for Stevenson. Some 200 leaders of volunteer units from 37 states assembled here today for a major political rally.

Stevenson could find time only for a brief reception for them tonight at the gubernatorial mansion.

The Illinois governor was busy, among other things, on a speech for next week to be built almost entirely on the explosive Communist issue.

New Smith Statement
At the same time, he took steps to head off any exploitation by his Republican rival, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, of Gen. Walter Bedell Smith's statement that Smith believes, or at least operates on the assumption, there are Communists even in the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency. Smith is chief of the intelligence agency.

Republicans seized on Smith's original statement, that he believes all security agencies including the CIA have been infiltrated, in support of their contention that the present administration has been lax in going after Reds in government. The head of the CIA made his statement in a legal proceeding in Washington.

Smith backed down a bit from his original statement. He got out another to the effect that what he really meant to say was that any intelligence agency must be on constant guard and would be "criminally negligent" if it did not operate on the assumption that Reds have been able to make a penetration.

No Political Football
The general told reporters the CIA never should become involved in a political campaign and that he had sent his second statement to President Truman and to candidates Eisenhower and Stevenson.

Stevenson seized last night on Smith's statement No. 2 and said that to exploit the original one "for partisan purposes is the kind of political opportunism which will never catch Communists."

"A highly professional, non-political intelligence agency is indispensable to the government, whether a Republican or Democrat is president," Stevenson said in a formal statement of his own. "It must never become a political football."

"Gen. Smith's statement," the Illinois governor said, "makes ludicrous the claim of the Republicans that this is a simple job which can be done easily if it is turned over to them."

Protestants Mark New Bible Event

NEW YORK (AP) — Protestant churches united last night for a nationwide celebration of a new Bible with special services in 3,400 towns and cities across the country.

The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. estimated an attendance totaling more than two millions from 150 denominations.

A first edition of the Bible—the new "Revised Standard Version" of the Scriptures—was published yesterday. The edition amounted to a million copies, the highest in book publishing history.

Use fruit garnish when you are serving cold sliced ham for a summer buffet. Minted pears, fresh pineapple rings centered with cherries, and round slices of orange will all taste good and look attractive with the meat.

TRUMAN LAUDS PAPERS WHICH DIG OUT TRUTHS

HARRISBURG, Pa., (AP)—President Harry S. Truman said today that newspapers "which use their freedom" of the press "to dig out and print the truth" are providing a vital service to democracy.

In an election year, the President said, "our newspapers have an unsurpassed opportunity to serve their country by supplying accurate and unbiased information so that their readers can be prepared for the choices they must make in November."

Truman's remarks were made in a letter to Theodore A. Serrill, general manager of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association and chairman of the National Newspaper Week for 1952. "I hope the annual observance of National Newspaper Week, to be held from Oct. 1-8, will reemphasize to all Americans the importance of knowing the facts," the President said in his letter.

Truths Are Vital
"That is the reason why our Constitution guarantees freedom of the press. The newspapers which use their freedom to dig out and print the truth are vital to our democracy."

Presidential candidates of both major parties joined Mr. Truman in special messages on Newspaper Week.

Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate, hailed the "wide variety of viewpoints" in the American press as "an element of strength."

"Tyranny can never take root or flourish in a climate which recognizes and respects the imperative need for freedom of expression," said Stevenson.

Republican candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower praised the American free press and called on all citizens to resist any moves to suppress and censor news.

"There have been those in this country who had advocated measures of news suppression and censorship. Every good citizen should resist these efforts, and I promise you that I will always resist such attempts."

"Unless actual and real national security is involved, the flow of all news—and particularly concerning the affairs of our government—must be kept full and free."

Although some snakes seem to be immune to their own venom, this is not always the case.

UNION SERVICE HELD TUESDAY FOR NEW BIBLE

A union service of Thanksgiving was held for the publication of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, Dillsburg, on Tuesday. Rev. William T. Swain Jr., chairman of the local observance committee, gave the address "The Word of God Made Plain Again."

The Rev. Monroe J. Shearer, president of the Dillsburg Ministerial Association and vice president of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, gave the invocation. Special music was provided by the Lions Club Quartet composed of Harold Starry, Leon Gillette, Baird Knaub and William Spahr, who sang several selections. Antiphonal reading of the Scriptures was given by John Hoffman, King James Version, and L. Hubert Smith, Revised Standard Version.

Five gift Bibles were presented to Rev. Leslie McRae for use in the churches; to George Kinsey, president of Northern Joint School Board for use in schools; to Earl Robson, president of the P.T.A., for use in their meetings; to Mrs. Jeanette Harding, president of the W.C.T.U.; and to Jan Wiley, president of the United Youth Fellowship, for use at their meetings, symbolic of the value of the Bible to young people. Objectives of this Bible observance, the pastor said, were: To deepen the religious life of the people and to prepare the way for a mighty revival of religion; to remember the central place of the Bible in every spiritual movement of the Christian Church and especially in the historic life of Protestantism; to encourage wider reading and study of the Bible in homes and churches in order that its teachings may become a constant guide for daily living; to make communities more aware of this basic unity in the common heritage, purpose and religious idealism in the Bible; to inform citizens of the United States and Canada about the Revised Standard Version of the Bible; to honor, both before the church people of the two countries and the general public, those who have given themselves tirelessly to the work of the translation, and to celebrate the completion of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible as a historical moment in the great tradition of translating the Bible into the people's language.

J. Alan Spahr, Dillsburg, a graduate of Mechanicsburg High School, has entered Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a member of the Freshman Class. He was accompanied to Cambridge, Mass., by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Rider, his sons, Galen and Alden, and Miss Henry-etta Spahr.

REPUBLICANS ATTACK GROWTH OF SECRECY IN U.S. GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican report says Democrats during the past 20 years have "stolen" from the people their right to know what the government is doing.

It said the scope and methods of governmental secrecy have grown to such proportions under the Truman administration that even Congress "has to fight for information before it can legislate."

Newspapers, it added, often can get facts only if reporters "turn themselves into detectives and gum shoe artists."

Tate Headed Committee

The accusations were made in a 12,000-word report prepared by the staff of the Republican Policy Committee in the Senate. It was distributed from the office of Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan.

The committee is headed by Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and decides party policy on major issues in the Senate.

The report said secrecy in government had increased slowly since 1933 and "reached its climax under Truman," whose administration, it said, used censorship, concealment and deception to keep the public in the dark about federal affairs.

Cite Truman Orders

"In one way or another the whole of government has been poisoned by this infection of secrecy," the report said.

"Truman is the author of three famous executive orders having as their aim first, the concealment of executive action from Congress; second, the slow strangling of every means of communication—press, radio, television and moving pictures; and third, the deliberate use of supposedly confidential information in an attempt to destroy political opponents."

The three orders were identified as the loyalty order of March, 1947; a supplementary order on loyalty investigation procedures in September, 1951; and an order last January opening income tax returns to the inspection of the senate rules committee.

Flagrant Abuse

The Republican report said the real reason for the third order was the "administration's passionate desire" to ruin Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), at the time under attack in the Senate by Sen. Benton (D-Conn.).

"To add this hatchet work the President opened the income tax returns to the rules committee," the report said. "A more flagrant abuse of the executive power was never seen."

WOULD DELAY DEPORTATION OF COSTELLO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William (R-Del.) said Tuesday he has asked the Justice Department to delay any move to deport gambler Frank Costello because Costello could be an important witness at trials "of some of our former key government officials."

In a letter to Atty. Gen. McGrath, Williams also said the dapper New Yorker racketeer leader should not be forced to leave this country until "satisfactory answers" have been obtained to these questions:

Protection From Whom.

"1. Has the Treasury Department given Frank Costello's tax account a thorough going over and have all outstanding assessments been collected?"

lected?

"2. Who is responsible for this evidence, upon which he is now apparently being deported, lying dormant in the Justice Department files for the past 27 years?"

"3. Who in official circles has been giving Mr. Costello and the other racketeers of this country their protection?"

Williams, who has staged a one-man crusade against alleged tax scandals, wrote McGrath that "after we have obtained answers to these questions and to any others which might arise, then deportation proceedings can be resumed."

Serving Prison Term

Costello now is serving an 18 months-prison term for contempt of Congress during hearings by the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigation Committee.

McGrath announced Sept. 8 the Justice Department will try to strip American citizenship from Costello on charges the Italian born reputed racketeer failed to disclose a criminal record when he applied for citizenship in 1925. Loss of citizenship could lead to deportation proceedings, but the Justice Department has not said whether it would try to deport Costello.

M'GRATH HAD NO ENTHUSIASM FOR CLEANUP

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators said today that former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath showed "no enthusiasm" for a Justice Department clean-up—rather, he "appeared to wish to delay and frustrate investigation."

From their findings, investigators said, it appears clear that the Justice Department under McGrath wanted to prevent an examination of its files for reasons which "cannot but arouse suspicion."

McGrath, fired last April 3 by President Truman after the administration clean up drive bogged down, was raked over for a second time in Part II of a report by a House Judiciary subcommittee.

Questions Good Faith

Chapter 1 of the report, issued last Monday, criticized McGrath's appointment of Newbold Morris, New York lawyer, to head the clean up campaign and questioned McGrath's good faith in making the appointment.

In reply, McGrath commented simply that "the report is beneath the dignity of men who care to be honest and honorable."

LEWIS WINS SECOND YEAR WITHOUT STRIKE

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the second straight year John L. Lewis has come up with a wage boost for miners without a strike—but at a price that industry leaders say may force many mines out of business.

Southern coal producers came to terms with the United Mine Workers chief late yesterday, thereby avoiding a threatened walkout today of their 100,000 miners.

The Dixie group agreed to the same terms Lewis had previously negotiated with the rest of the industry — a $1.90 daily pay increase, plus a 10-cent-a-ton hike in the operator-paid royalty for the union's welfare fund. The daily wage now becomes $18.25 and the royalty 40 cents a ton.

Some Must Close

A number of industry leaders said that undoubtedly a number of mines would have to close, rather than try to pay the new costs. These, they said, are the less-mechanized, hand-labor mines where labor cost is relatively greater.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association, said a number of his member owners plan to close down some of their high-cost mines.

Moody said this would be true even if the government holds coal price ceilings. On that point Moody observed:

"We're going to try to get a dollar a ton increase because, if eral told a reporter he had no intention of "engaging in a cross-fire of discussion on each of the committee's interim reports."

Third Is Coming

"I shall wait until they have concluded their work," he said, "and at that time I shall say what I think is appropriate."

In today's installment—the third is due next week—the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Chelf (D-Ky), pictures McGrath as an official who exhibited "a deplorable lack of knowledge of the department he was supposed to administer."

It's Cinerama. This is a new movie system of projecting pictures which gives an illusion of the third dimension—depth.

The film is projected on a curved screen. It's like looking into the bottom of a "U". The screen is about six times the size of the one in your neighborhood theater.

OPTIMISM IS HIGH ON IKE'S CAMPAIGN TRAIN

By DON WHITEHEAD
ABROAD EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower carried his time-for-a-change campaign westward today on a 28-state drive that could make or break his hopes to win the presidency in November.

Optimism was running high. His special train moved into Michigan on a whistle-stopping push through states that will have 361 electoral votes out of the 531 total—or more than enough to swing the election.

Eisenhower carried with him the warm memory of a rousing welcome in Columbia, S. C., yesterday where 50,000 people roared "We want Ike." They cheered his attacks on President Truman and the Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai Stevenson, and his bold bid for the state's support.

Reds-In-Government
On the steps of the historic old South Carolina State House, Eisenhower was introduced by Gov. James F. Byrnes—once a friend of President Truman and one-time secretary of state in the Truman Cabinet.

A lifelong Democrat, Byrnes called for the people to put their country above a party label and to elect Eisenhower as the man who could clean up "the mess in Washington" and prevent a third world war.

Eisenhower gave a hint, before leaving Columbia, that he is ready to launch an attack on Communists-in-government at almost any time.

Won't Attack Smith
Eisenhower had been pressed for comment on a statement by Gen. Bedell Smith, chief of the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency, that he believed Communists had infiltrated even into his organization. Later, Smith said he knew of no Communists in the organization—but had to assume enemy agents had infiltrated into it.

Eisenhower talked to Smith yesterday about his statement—given to a congressional committee.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty, said Eisenhower told Smith—his war-time chief of staff—that he did not intend to attack either Smith or the CIA. But Hagerty said Eisenhower did not mean he would not speak out against subversives in government positions.

"Scandal-A-Day"
In Columbia, he openly bid for the people's support against Stevenson.

Byrnes, introducing the general, said the people of South Carolina know if the Democratic candidate is elected, he is under such obligation

Railroads Played Important Roles In Developing County; First Was Never Completed

Biddle, president of the bank, took up the idea of a state charter. Working obscurely through the Whig party, representatives of the bank appear to have reached an understanding that in exchange for support of Ritner for governor in 1835, they were to obtain a state grant, in event of Ritner's success. When the legislature convened, Stevens' anti-Masonic friend, Ner Middlesworth, speaker of the House, appointed committees sympathetic toward the institution. The Committee on Banks tion to President Truman he would have to continue the Truman policies and many of the Truman appointees. He has embraced the policies and the appointees have embraced him.

"The people of South Carolina know that the job of cleaning up the 'mess' cannot be entrusted to the men who made the mess." Slapping back at President Truman—who had called him a "front man" for special interests—Eisenhower said the Democratic administration "may go down in history as the scandal-a-day administration."

wrote Biddle, saying that they had been informed that the stockholders of his bank would accept a charter from the state and requested him to inform them of the terms on which this could be effected. In his answer Biddle outlined what the bank desired and urged the committee to lose no time, so that action could be taken at a meeting of stockholders scheduled in the near future.

Bill Helps Stevens
"Biddle had written on January 7, Twelve days later, the Committee on Inland Navigation and Internal Improvements introduced through Stevens a bill to form the bank. Oddly enough, it was entitled 'an act to repeal the state tax on real and personal property and to continue and extend the improvements of the state by railroads and canals and other purposes.' The original title made no mention of the United States Bank, but this was later inserted.

"Biddle's agent, William B. Reed, had suggested that as far as legislative support was concerned, the temptation of a turn-pike or a few miles of canal and railroad as a beginning on a favorite route is nearly irresistible

"The proposal was long and involved. In exchange for a 20-year charter, carrying with it exemption from taxation on its dividends, the bank was to pay the Commonwealth a bonus of two million dollars; to loan it up to six million dollars at low interest, and subscribe six hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars to various designated internal improvements. Furthermore, and of paramount interest to Stevens, the institution was required to pay a bonus of five hundred thousand dollars in 1837 and one hundred thousand dollars annually thereafter for 20 years, all of which was to be used for the benefit of the state's newly established system of public schools.

"Another section which endeared it to Stevens was the one allocating two hundred thousand dollars to begin work on his pet railroad, which would run west from the town of Gettysburg. He had been agitating in behalf of this construction for years, and his persistent determination to effect it brought him no end of opprobrium. It was dubbed 'the Tape-worm,' because of its necessarily circuitous route.

"Under Stevens' direction, the bill, with a few unimportant amendments was passed.

Had No Terminal
"Gettysburg was so hemmed in with mountains that railroad approaches were unusually tortuous and correspondingly expensive. The engineering problem was so difficult that he (Stevens) could not at first even suggest a terminal. What he wanted was an outlet for the town south and west, but because the mountains had been unexplored by engineers, no commitment could be made as to just where or with what the railroad should connect.

"The opposition newspapers were not long in turning Stevens' problem to ridicule. They referred to it as a railroad 'to commence in the woods and end nowhere.' But to him that did not conclude the matter. It meant only that getting the railroad would be a little harder work.

"Stevens had begun his agitation in 1831. Although he kept constantly at it, he was unable to do anything until the Bank Bill in 1836 so unexpectedly furnished pregnant and luscious opportunity.

"No one knew much about the Stevens scheme in 1836, but he had two great levers to get it through. If the bank bill, as he drew it, were not passed, all the numerous appropriations to turn-pikes and railroads through the state would be endangered. With ingenious distribution of funds provided for by the bill, the various legislators were forced to support it to obtain the respective allotments and benefits appropriated to their individual localities. They were willing to join in a little 'log-rolling.'

Work Is Started
"The bill passed and work on the railroad was started. It aimed in a generally southwesterly direction and was to 'cross the route of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and connect with the Chesapeake and Ohio canal at some point in the state of Maryland, at or west of Williamsport.'

"One part of its route seemed certain. Stevens had become interested in the Maria Iron Furnace and there was little doubt in anyone's mind that if he continued to control it, (the railroad) it would pass near that operation. Transporting ore and coal by horse and cart was a great deal more expensive than hauling it by railroad. Its propensity would also increase the value of some of Stevens' real estate.

"That he did get some practical benefit from the operation is conclusively shown by the election returns. In those days, the voting laws required no long residence, and a thousand workers, if properly instructed, could do great 'good' at the polls.

"The work went on, but as annual appropriations were made and the railroad grew, the problem of a definite route became pressing. Oddly enough, its proponents were unable to give any map, or plan. They had some engineers survey the terrain and submit a map, but it looked so crooked and winding that even though they had promised to publish it, they were afraid to, when they saw it. Somehow the Democrats obtained a copy and got much pleasure circulating it in the fall of 1838.

It took little imagination to see an outline of 'The Tape-worm.' From Gettysburg to Waynesboro is 18 miles in direct line and 22 miles by road, but by the proposed railroad, it was no less than 35. It meandered up mountains and turned on itself several times. Then just as the work was nicely under way, the Democrats came into power in the Lower House. They determined to end it by cutting off appropriations.

"A committee from each branch of the legislature was appointed to investigate. The House committee, with Stevens' arch enemy, M'Elwee as chairman, found it 'an isolated work' passing through 'a barren waste without fertility, presenting the general features of an American Siberia.' It recommended that all operations be immediately suspended.

"The Senate committee reported that the railroad would not justify the expense of construction and that the sooner the work was suspended the better it would be for the state. When the Legislature met that fall, it passed a bill making an appropriation for work already done, and directed suspension 'after the first day of January next.' That was on December 19, 1837, but before the governor signed it, the Legislature, adjourned temporarily. It reconvened on January 9, 1838, and on that day the governor signed the bill and returned it to the Legislature with a message. Again Stevens had out-manuevered his opposition. Had the bill become a law, as the Legislature intended, work on the railroad would have stopped on December 31, 1837. With Stevens' manipulation of the Legislature itself permissively continued it another year.

"The work went on but because of exhausted appropriations the workers could not be paid. 'The Tape-worm' died."

STATE IN NEED OF MORE POLICE SAYS TRANSEAU

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (U)—A state safety expert called today for employment of additional state police to crack down on speeders on Pennsylvania's highways.

T. Elmer Transeau, director of the State Bureau of Highway Safety, said the Pennsylvania state police, largest force in the nation with 1,800 patrolmen, averages less than one patrolman on duty for every 100 miles of highway.

Deaths on out-of-city highways are up 26 per cent since 1946, while city and town deaths are 14 per cent in the same period, he told the Pennsylvania Traffic Engineers Institute.

"Rural death totals, which have never stopped increasing since 1946, will continue until somebody does something about it," he said.

"... Basically the root of the problem is lack of personnel of practically every police force in the country."

Transeau suggested as remedies: (1) fixing reasonable speed limits on all highways on the basis of surface, grade, curves, and alignment; (2) swift, sure punishment for speed violators; and (3) establishment of county safety councils to pay attention to safety problems on rural roads.

The Upper Adams Joint School System will spend $318,808 to instruct its more than 1,300 students during the coming year, according to its budget as submitted to the State Department of Public Instruction through the county superintendent's office.

The budget indicates that the district will spend $13,709.98 more than the $305,198.02 it spent during the past year. According to the budget, $4,678 will be spent for general control; $198,930 for instructional services; $40,175 for auxiliary agencies and similar activities; $25,000 for operation of the school buildings; $6,700 for maintenance of the school buildings; $12,925 for fixed charges; $27,900 for debt services and $2,500 for capital outlay.

Farm Calendar

Wheat for Chickens—Hens will lay well if wheat is used as the only grain in the scratch feed, according to F. H. Leuschner, extension poultry specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. If vitamin A is supplied in sufficient quantity by such foods as alfalfa meals, leafy hays, and fish oils, you can use ground wheat to replace corn in the mash mixture.

Control Lawn Weeds—A good turf is the best weed control in a lawn, says A. E. Cooper, Penn State extension agronomist. A dense sod will keep out most weeds. That means fertilizing in the fall, liming if the lawn needs it, and mowing the grass high, at least an inch and a half above the ground.

Treat Gladioli Corms—To control gladioli thrips, treat the corms when stored with 5 or 10 per cent DDT dust, recommends Stanley Gedell, Penn State extension entomologist. Use about one tablespoon of dust to each peck of corms, sifted on them in open trays or shaking dust and corms together in paper bags.

House Pullets—Pullets should be housed according to maturity, suggests Robert Lauffer, Penn State extension poultry specialist. The pullets ready to lay can be put in a pen by themselves and the immature birds in a separate pen, and both fed according to need.

Get Spring Blooms—To be sure of getting blooms next spring do not plant bulbs too deeply outdoors, cautions John Mezaros, Penn State extension horticulturist. He reminds that detailed information can be obtained from your county agricultural agent.

Check Dairy Herd—Inspect the dairy herd carefully this fall. Joe Taylor, Penn State extension dairy specialist, says that only a healthy, high-producing herd should be stable for milk production.

Feed the Ewes—The roughage needed for breeding ewes will vary, depending on their size and the availability of winter pasture. Thomas King, Penn State extension livestock specialist, says that most who headed the famed medical center's plastic surgery department, Dr. Hanrahan was a native of Binghamton, N. Y.

He had hospital connections in Binghamton and in Hanover, Pa.

producers should have at least 600 to 700 pounds of good hay per ewe for a 5-month feeding period.

Cull Poultry Flock—Culling is more than a once-a-year job and should be applied to pullet laying flocks right now if necessary, explains F. H. Leuschner, Penn State extension poultry specialist. Some pullets cannot hold up under the strain of continuous egg production. They get thin or out of condition.

Plant Wild Flowers—If you are interested in planting wild flowers, you can get them from any one of several nurseries which specialize in this field in Pennsylvania. A. O. Rasmussen, Penn State extension ornamental horticulturist, reminds that much should be placed over these plants to protect them throughout the winter.

Control Mice—Now is the time for fruit growers to put out bait stations in their orchards, according to C. S. Brittner, Penn State extension fruit specialist. Corn fodder, old hay, or straw may be used. Poison bait can be placed later in the runways.

Pen Stabling—Many farmers have become interested in pen stabling for dairy cows. I. E. Parkin, extension dairy specialist of the Pennsylvania State College, urges farmers to consider carefully the advantages and disadvantages of the system.

Avoid Accidents—Tractor accidents can be prevented if farmers will use care in their operation, declares C. G. Burress, Penn State extension agricultural engineer.

State Increases Relief By $690,000

HARRISBURG (U)—More than 200,000 persons on Pennsylvania's relief rolls will receive increases in their checks for food, clothing and other incidentals beginning today.

The increase in relief grants will cost the Commonwealth an additional $690,000 a month.

The Department of Public Assistance pointed out, however, that some overall reductions to recipients may take place on the basis of new allowances for fuel and utilities. These now will be meted out as flat average amounts rather than on the basis of actual costs as previously.

Carbon black, a widely used industrial material, is soot.

Man Convicted Of Manslaughter

HARRISBURG (U)—A jury of seven men and five women in Dauphin County Court today found George O. Crisswell, 26, Middle Paxton Township, guilty of manslaughter in the shotgun slaying of his wife, Grace, at their farm home June 8.

The jury's verdict, returned at 1:30 a. m. after more than 10 hours of debate, recommended leniency for Crisswell.

The state had asked for a verdict of second degree murder. Judge Homer L. Kreider said sentence will be pronounced on Monday.

Church To Mark 100th Anniversary

The 100th anniversary of the organization of the Lutheran congregation at the Chestnut Grove Church will be observed on Sunday, October 12.

The observance will combine Rally Day with the celebration in the morning during Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. The speaker will be Charles Glatfelter, professor of history and economics at Gettysburg College. Donald Golden, of York Springs, will give a vocal solo.

The evening service will be held at 7:30 o'clock and will be in observance of the anniversary celebration. The Rev. Dr. Jacob Myers, D.D., professor of Old Testament at the Gettysburg Seminary, will deliver the message. There will be special music by the choir and a vocal solo by Miss Jane Anderson.

TRUMAN SAYS
IKE'S TALKING
LIKE LOBBYIST

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (P)—President Truman, dedicating the 100-million dollar Hungry Horse Dam, accused Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today of turning against such projects after learning "the Republican party line." Truman said the Republican presidential nominee is talking "like one of the lobbyists for the private power monopolies" and if he is elected, "it will be a long time before you see another structure of this kind."

It was another speech in the President's coolly calculated attempt to destroy Eisenhower's prestige in a "give 'em hell" campaign tour from coast to coast.
Hatchet Man Harry
Truman is working the role of the Democratic party's "hatchet man" with the calm and relentless assurance of a veteran campaigner going about familiar work. Leaving his campaign train at Columbia Falls, Mont., he viewed the dam and drove on to Kallispell for a dedicatory speech in the high school gymnasium.
"All of you who are here today had better go over and take another look at this dam, because if the Republicans win this election, it will be a long time before you see another structure of this kind," Truman said.

"Old Guard View"
"The Republican candidate for president made it perfectly plain in a speech in Boise, Idaho, a few weeks ago that he was against dams like this," the President added.
And he said Eisenhower now accepts the "Old Guard view that dams like Hungry Horse, and government transmission lines, and low cost public power" are part of the "creeping socialism" of which the slogan writers for the power monopolies talk.
It was after "many men" visited Eisenhower at Denver following his nomination, the President declared, that the general changed his tune.

Given Prison Term

BALTIMORE (P)—Mrs. Esther Bair Hess, formerly of Altoona and York, Pa., has been sentenced to three years for embezzling $11,589 from her employer.
The 34-year-old lumber yard bookkeeper was convicted on the charge in July but sentence was delayed until yesterday while an investigation was made of her plea for a parole.

Her husband, Bernard S. Hess, was acquitted.

Quakes Ike
He quoted Eisenhower as saying at Boise this country has a government applying the philosophy of the left and adding:
"The government will build the dams, the government will tell you how to distribute your power, the government will do this and that, the government does everything but come in and wash dishes for the housewife."
Truman went on to say:
"We Democrats will plead guilty to building the dams. And as far as washing dishes is concerned, we have made a lot of progress on that too."
Can't Accuse GOP
"We've made it possible for housewives to get cheap electricity so that they can afford to have electric washers to do the dishes, and we have brought electricity to millions of homes that never had it before. And this has been done over the opposition of the Republicans and the utility companies."
And he said he wanted to make it clear that "no one can accuse the Republican party of doing anything to help the housewife wash the dishes."
Hungry Horse, the world's fourth largest, third highest concrete dam, towers 564 feet above the bed of the south fork of the Flat Head River.

Deny Bombing Greek Troops

SEOUL, Korea (P)—The U. S. Fifth Air Force today denied that Allied fighter-bombers had dropped bombs on Greek troops atop Big Nori Hill in Western Korea Sunday.

Four F80 Shooting Star jets swooped down on the hill as the Greeks braced to meet a counter-attack by Chinese Reds.

The U. S. 8th Army communique Sunday night said the four dropped bombs that landed where the Greeks were fighting.

The Greeks withdrew from Big Nori. A liaison officer with them said U. S. bombs killed one officer and four enlisted men.

The Air Force announcement today said an investigation showed "no bombs fell on friendly positions" and the fighter-bombers "did not fire their guns."
